

CAROLINA HURRICANES 4, WASHINGTON CAPITALS 0

Eastern Conference Second Round Game Three

Postgame Notes – May 10, 2025

Attendance: 19,174 (Sellout)

CAROLINA HURRICANES SCORING NOTES

Per	Time	Goal Scorer	Assists	STR	Score
2	12:34	Andrei Svechnikov (6)	Unassisted	EV	1-0 CAR
2	18:57	Jack Roslovic (1)	Brent Burns (2), Taylor Hall (3)	PP	2-0 CAR
3	3:14	Eric Robinson (1)	Logan Stankoven (2), Jack Roslovic (2)	EV	3-0 CAR
3	16:44	Jackson Blake (2)	Shayne Gostisbehere (4), Seth Jarvis (5)	PP	4-0 CAR

-- Jack Roslovic (1g, 1a) registered his first Hurricanes playoff goal and his fourth career postseason multi-point game.

-- Eric Robinson scored his first Hurricanes postseason goal and his first since 2020.

-- Seth Jarvis tallied an assist, giving him five helpers in as many contests.

-- Shayne Gostisbehere registered an assist, giving him four points (1g, 3a) in his last five games.

WASHINGTON CAPITALS SCORING NOTES

Per	Time	Goal Scorer	Assists	STR	Score
-----	------	-------------	---------	-----	-------

No scoring

STEADY FREDDIE

Frederik Andersen became the first Hurricanes netminder to record a postseason shutout since Antti Raanta in Game 2 of the 2022 Second Round. This marks Andersen's fourth career playoff shutout, and he ranks fifth in playoff wins (43) among active goaltenders (excluding Carey Price). He leads all goaltenders who have started a game in the 2025 playoffs in save percentage (.940) and goals-against average (1.32). The Danish netminder has allowed fewer than two goals in 12 of his 26 playoff games with the club, the second-most such appearances in franchise history. Cam Ward allowed fewer than two goals in 14 playoff contests in his career.

YOUNG GUNS

Logan Stankoven (3-2—5) and Jackson Blake (2-3—5) both tallied their fifth point of the playoffs, which is tied for the fifth-most points by a Hurricanes/Whalers rookie in a single playoff year. Only Erik Cole (6-3—9 in 2002), Warren Foegele (5-4—9 in 2019), Seth Jarvis (3-5—8 in 2022) and Brad Shaw (2-5—7 in 1990) have recorded more. Stankoven leads all rookies in goals, and he and Blake are tied with Lane Hutson (0-5—5) for the NHL lead in points this postseason. The Hurricanes have now accumulated 10 points (5g, 5a) from rookies in the 2025 playoffs, the most of any team.

POWER SURGE

Carolina scored two power-play goals tonight, giving it nine power-play goals in eight postseason games, the most in the NHL. The last time the Hurricanes had nine power-play goals in a span of eight playoff games was from 6/1/06-6/19/06 (10 PPG), and the last time they tallied as many goals on the man advantage in any span was from 10/18/24-11/3/24 (9 PPG). Brent Burns (23-54—78) tallied an assist on the first power-play goal, tying John Carlson (21-57—78) for the fifth-most playoff points by an active blueliner. He leads that list in postseason goals. Shayne Gostisbehere earned his fifth power-play point of the postseason (1-4—5), matching Cam Fowler (0-5—5) for the most among League blueliners. Gostisbehere's total is also tied for the fourth-most among all skaters.

ANDREI THE GIANT

Andrei Svechnikov scored his sixth goal of the postseason, marking the most goals through the first eight games of the playoffs in franchise history and tying William Nylander for the third-most goals in the 2025 postseason. His goal marks his 43rd career playoff point (21g, 22a), tying Eric Staal (19g, 24a) for the second-most in franchise history. The Russian forward also ranks second in Hurricanes/Whalers history in postseason goals.

HOME SWEET HOME

Carolina won its fourth consecutive home game to begin a postseason for the fourth time in franchise history tonight. The Hurricanes also accomplished this in 2022 (7-0), 2019 (5-0) and 2002 (4-0). They have now posted a 30-13 record at home in the playoffs since 2019, the most home postseason wins of any team over that span. They have earned a 49-26 all-time playoff record at Lenovo Center, and their .653 home win percentage in the postseason since 2001 trails only CHI (48-22: .686) for the League high during that stretch.

ORLY BIRD GETS THE WORM

Dmitry Orlov skated in his 100th career playoff game tonight, making him the 17th active defenseman to appear in as many postseason contests. Ryan McDonagh tops the list with 196 games played and Brent Burns ranks 11th among active D-men in playoff games with 128. Orlov (4-36—40) is tied with Jacob Slavin (9-31—40 in 79 GP) for 23rd among active blueliners in playoff points and holds the third-most by a Russian-born defenseman in NHL history. The blueliner has played the ninth-most postseason games (100) among League D-men since Orlov made his playoff debut in 2016.

GAME 3

The Hurricanes now own a 12-23 (.343) record in the third game of a best-of-seven series in franchise history, marking their lowest win percentage in any game of a best-of-seven matchup. They have also now registered a 6-11 home record in those contests and a 5-7 record overall in Game 3 when the series is tied 1-1 (3-5 at home). Carolina boasts a 9-4 total series record when going up 2-1 (1-1 when starting on the road) and a 5-6 record when trailing 2-1 (2-5 when starting on the road).

RAISING UP THE LENOVO CENTER

The Hurricanes' win vs. Washington tonight marked their 113th consecutive regular-season/playoff sellout at Lenovo Center (capacity 18,700), dating back to Feb. 24, 2023. The Hurricanes' last non-sellout at home came on 2/21/23, when a crowd of 18,142 watched the team post a 4-1 win vs. STL – a game that came two days after the team hosted 56,961 fans at Carter-Finley Stadium for the 2023 Stadium Series. During the 2023-24 season, Carolina sold out every single home game for the first time in franchise history, averaging 18,819 fans per game (includes standing-room attendance).

SPECIAL TEAMS

- Carolina went 2-for-2 on the power play tonight and is 9-for-27 (33.3%) on the man advantage in the postseason. The Hurricanes went 2-for-2 on the penalty kill and are 21-for-22 (95.5%) on the kill in the playoffs.
- Washington went 0-for-2 on the power play tonight and is 4-for-20 (20.0%) on the man advantage in the postseason. The Capitals went 0-for-2 on the penalty kill and are 15-for-23 (65.2%) on the kill in the playoffs.

SHOTS BY PERIOD

TEAMS	1st	2nd	3rd	OT	Total
Washington	9	6	6	-	21
Carolina	6	11	11	-	28